We Are the Shadow-Ghosts, Creeping Back as the Camp Fires Burn Low: The Twentieth Newsletter (2019).
PS: our offices regularly have meetings and events. This Friday (17 May), our office in Buenos Aires will hold a discussion on their Vijay.

Warmly,

If we do something about it.

Professor Sandra Díaz, who teaches in Argentina’s National University of Cordoba and is the co-chair of the IPBES report, ... eco-diversity are ‘declining fast’, ‘we still have the means to ensure a sustainable future for people and the planet’.

Unless we do something about it.

And we are going

The corroboree is gone.

The bora ring is gone.

The eagle is gone, the emu and the kangaroo are gone from this place.

The scrubs are gone, the hunting and the laughter.

Gone now and scattered.

We are nature and the past, all the old ways

We are the shadow-ghosts creeping back as the camp fires burn low.

How can you own that which outlives you?

Chico River Dam Project, the murder of thousands of others as they try to construct a socialist future.

The über-wealthy believe that they can hide from the crisis. They are in search of citadels, novel ways to preserve their ... the fantasy of building a robot army to protect them in their islands of prosperity. Europe builds its ‘wall’ along the

But to believe that a socialist approach could halt the annihilation of fossil fuel capitalism is not sufficient. Even if ... The reservoirs of the Left’s power are low, the weaknesses apparent. The Left has to be built and built in a hurry.

Käthe Kollwitz,

The text from a recent United Nations (UN) report has a title that buries its serious message:

Greetings from the desk of the

Dear Friends,

Wilfredo Lam,

The population bomb

is almost guaranteed: 75% of the terrestrial environment ‘severely altered’, 680 vertebrate species driven to extinction since the 16 century, more than 40% of amphibian species, almost 33% of reef-forming corals and more than a third of marine mammals are on the edge of extinction.

– is a euphemism for capitalism, for a system of economic activity that is premised on private property and profit, on the accumulation of capital as the reason for existence. It is this ‘current limited paradigm of economic growth’, which produces global warming and calls

the attempt to stop human beings from migration ‘para-genocide,’ asking

Theresa Ng’ambi, James Sakala, Maureen Lilanda, Pompi & Shaps

Two main reasons for this catastrophe are evident, and they are related: the ‘current limited paradigm of economic ... change’. This UN report, like several previous ones, is measured in its language but not in its analysis. The phrase –

The rate of global species extinction is tens of hundreds of times faster now than it was over the last ten million years. It is an impossible report to read, incorporates the wisdom of indigenous knowledge. It is a summary, which will be elaborated later this year into a 1500-page final report. The weight of the scientific community sits at its heart. The most important finding of the report is this:

The text from a recent United Nations (UN) report has a title that buries its serious message:

Greetings from the desk of the

Dear Friends,

Wilfredo Lam,