You Only Run For the Border When You See the Whole City Running As Well: The Thirty-Seventh Newsletter (2018).
Uprising. 'Don’t tell me women are not the stuff of heroes', she said. Warmly, Vijay.

The Benedictine monk Marcelo Barros puts pressure on the tigers; the villagers who are killed by the tiger are merely fodder for processes that are beyond ... the destruction of the Amazon Rain Forest and of the Arctic Circle. Profit is more important to this system than people.

A tigress named Avni and her cubs roamed the area near the future cement factory. The government said that she had killed ... She had to be killed. Jaideep Hardikar’s three part series on the killing of the tiger is riveting – an essential read (part 1, part 2, part 3).

Meanwhile, if you are in Havana there is a Youth Theatre Festival (see above) that is dedicated to Ramón Silverio. ... harmony and respects individualities no matter if they’re Marxist, Christian or gay’. The festival is the opposite of the Cuba came to the United Nations General Assembly with the resolution against the US embargo of the small island nation. ... Cuba’s Foreign Minister Bruno Rodríguez Parrilla offered the rationale for the end of the embargo in his important speech at the session in New York on 1 November. It is clear that on foreign policy the Trump administration is more belligerent rhetoric from John Bolton.

Cuba, Nicaragua and Venezuela. Trump has wanted war against one of these countries. Now, with close allies in Brazil and Colombia, the United States will ramp up pressure against these countries and – likely – will intervene in at least one of them.

on both sides of the border the displaced people have to struggle to get by with super-exploited wages and poor working conditions.

When they cross the unforgiving borders, they get to work: building homes, finding work, raising children (the picture above is by Yara A. Bsaibes). They can never return to the place they were born or where their family is. But they are living together in homeless states that can mix, where the poverty is, and those on the border and those in the transnational capitalist core.

Dear Friends,

When you see the whole city running as well you only run for the border. Home is the mouth of a shark. From Salvador to seek asylum in Mexico and a fourth caravan of near two thousand people left San Salvador and reached the ... flee places that the people think have failed them. It brings to mind the words of the Somali-British poet Warsan Shire, when you see the whole city running as well you only run for the border. Home is the mouth of a shark.
